Hi, I'm a librarian. You may know me from my greatest hits "How did the computer get like this?" "Actually techically you don't pay my salary." "Wikipedia is better than many alternatives." "I don't care how loud you are." and "What in gods name happened to the bathroom?"

Getting that bread ain't always easy. No matter what your job is, there are bound to be elements of it that other people just don't get.

People on Twitter are now sharing all the annoying misconceptions about their jobs using the "Hello I'm an X. You may know me from my greatest hits such as..." -meme.

The meme encourages you to share the clarifications you find yourself making over and over again about your job, as well as the answers to the most common questions about your job — presented in the meme as the "greatest hits" of your profession.

The meme was born on Twitter when @YourMomsucksTho's tweet about common frustrations about mom life went viral.
